Eric Poirier
CEO

Eric spearheads Addepar’s mission to solve the financial sector’s intractable data and scale challenges.

Before joining Addepar, he spent nearly 7 years at Palantir Technologies, creating tools that enable organizations to make sense of large, disparate datasets. One of Palantir’s first 20 employees, he shaped its core technology while building the finance business, which now represents half of the company’s revenue base.

Earlier in his career, Eric worked in Lehman Brothers’ Fixed Income Analytics group, modeling, simulating, and visualizing data across a broad range of debt and credit instruments. Eric graduated from Columbia University with a BS in Computer Science.